

Sea otters are a threatened species on the west coast of British Columbia. These amazing creatures were hunted for their thick pelts, and by 1911, less than 2000 sea otters remained in the world. The sea otters are slowly recovering but they need your help and awareness to get them off the Threatened Species list.

Adopt an otter and help promote educational campaigns to reduce oil pollution and conserve a healthy ecosystem.

For more information, visit our website at: www.geocities.com/adoptaseaotter/index.html
and
www.oceanlink.island.net/seaotterstewardship/

Or contact by email at:
adoptaseaotter@yahoo.ca